Bob,
Let me tell you, you were a really great addition to this school. You're a big asset to the Jr.
class — (Hum) I hope next year can be just as much fun as this year. I won't forget the notes in Am.
History. You were a big help. (Ha-Ha)
Be good to Sam this summer.
I hope you find a new place to park. Also you next year when we're Sr's we ought to tear this school up. (Ha-Ha)
Be good
Gayle

Bob,
Thanks to Sam I'm not your wife anymore. But you're still a neat junior.
I wish you all the luck you can have in the future. O hope I can see some plays at P.H.S. next year to see you in them. You're really fun to be around. Be a good senior next year.

Gosh, I don't even know where to begin. (Possibly you and I would both be better off if I didn't begin at all!).

Thank you, Mr. Rawlins, sir, for all the moral support you have given me. Brothers like you are hard to come by. I'll never forget that Friday when my Bob and your Sam were in K. C. and we drove and drove and talked and talked. I don't think we solved anything, but we tried. At least now we know where they store the city Christmas decorations in case we should ever need them!

you and Bob are going to have to help me learn to ski. I swear by St. Ormington that I shall learn! Skiing, next to my Bob, you dive that I shall learn! Skiing, next to my Bob, you are my favorite boy-people. Like a brother! I'll never forget our confessional sessions at the first of the year. (and my trumpet lessons!)

Villander (pronounced as indicated above), I wish you the very best of luck. and, no matter what you do in life, keep happy, and have fun, fun, fun, and never grow up! We Baptist-Christians must have some swinging four somes this summer.

Volume III

PARSONS SENIOR HIGH SCHOO

NORSEMAN

PARSONS, KANSAS

Foreword

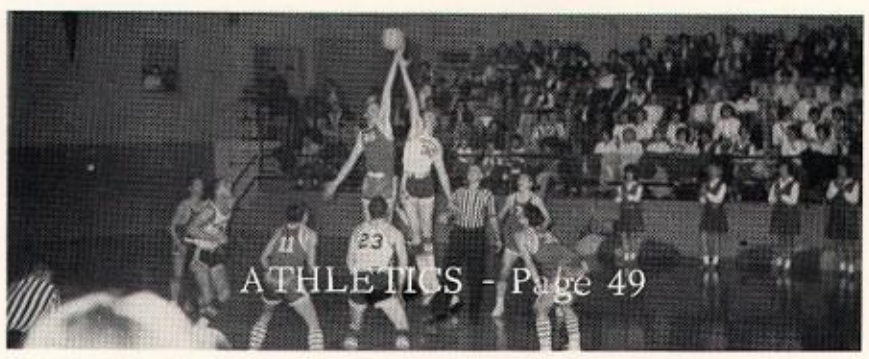
This book is a storybook. Bound between two covers and captured upon these pages is illustrated the story of Parsons Senior High School, 1965.

Long after our tale has been told, one of the characters will lift this book from a shelf and recapture from dulled, yellowed leaves the memories etched in his heart and mind of high school days.

The story we write here has been reproduced through the use of camera, typewriter, printer, and determination. But the pages upon which the plot unfolds would be meaningless one day were it not for the reality of the personalities here represented. When in the future nostalgia transports us back to Parsons High School, it will be because we remember all the others who make the story real for us--those friends, administrators, teachers, and counselors, who have enriched our youth.

To them--the people about whom our story is concerned--we must bow. For without them we would have nothing to remember and the pages of the book we now present would be blank.

Table Of Contents



Without this man our school could not run as smoothly as it does. Without him there would be a dark shadow in our halls. Without him everyone at Parsons High would lose a good friend. Without him there would be no one to just talk with about the weather, or understand when we students have a poor day.

After fifteen years of faithful service to the school, we, the annual staff, are proud and privileged to dedicate the 1965 Norseman to Mr. F. H. "Slim" Bevington.

N.F.L. Chapter Grows

With a membership of twenty-four students, the local National Forensic League Chapter grew to its largest number during the 1964-65 school year. The Parsons chapter is one of thirty-four in Kansas. There are one thousand NFL chapters in the United States.

Members of the chapter in addition to participating in debate and forensic tournaments, held a two-day debate tournament at P.H.S. in December. It was the fifth consecutive year a tournament has been conducted here, but the first time that the tournament has been of the two-day variety.

Officers of the chapter are: Jim Wart, president; Dale Seward, vice president; Cindy Bracken, secretary.

All - Male "Stalag 17" Presented November 12-13

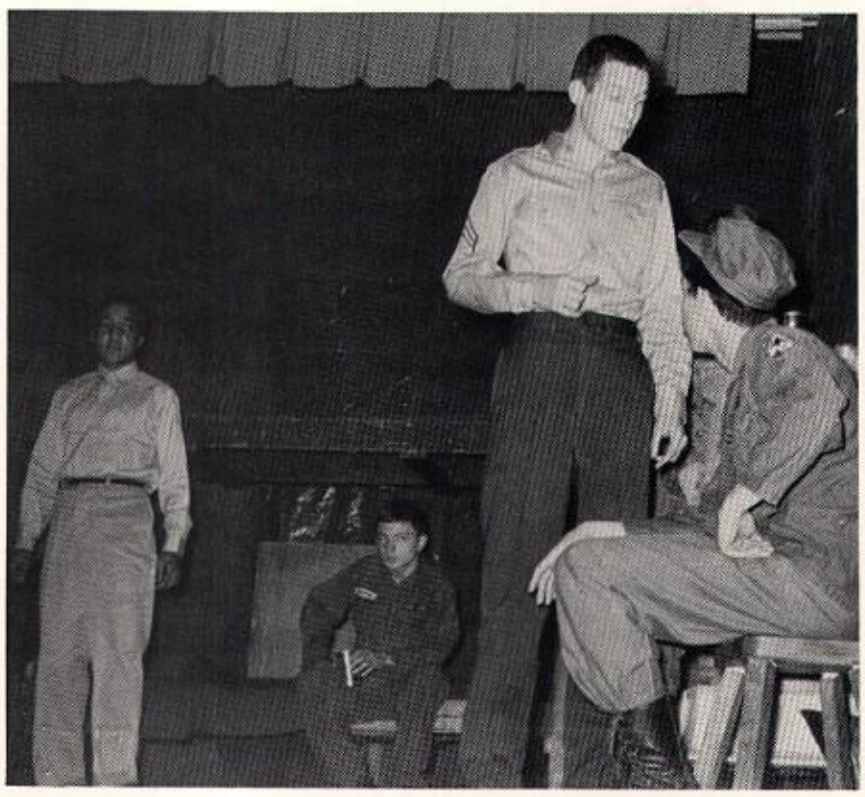
"Stalag 17", the first all-school play of the year was presented Thursday and Friday, November 12 and 13 in the P.H.S. auditorium.

Over 550 persons witnessed the play in its two-night run. The play marked the first time in several years an all-male cast play has been produced by P.H.S. It also was the first time in several years that two evening performances of a play have been presented.

Twenty boys from all three classes made up the cast. The play was a comedy-drama about a group of American GI's in a prisoner of war camp in Germany. The time of the play was a Christmas during World War II.

The men in the camp decided that one of their number was a spy, since the Germans discovered everything the GI's tried to do. The suspense in the play centered upon the discovery of this spy.

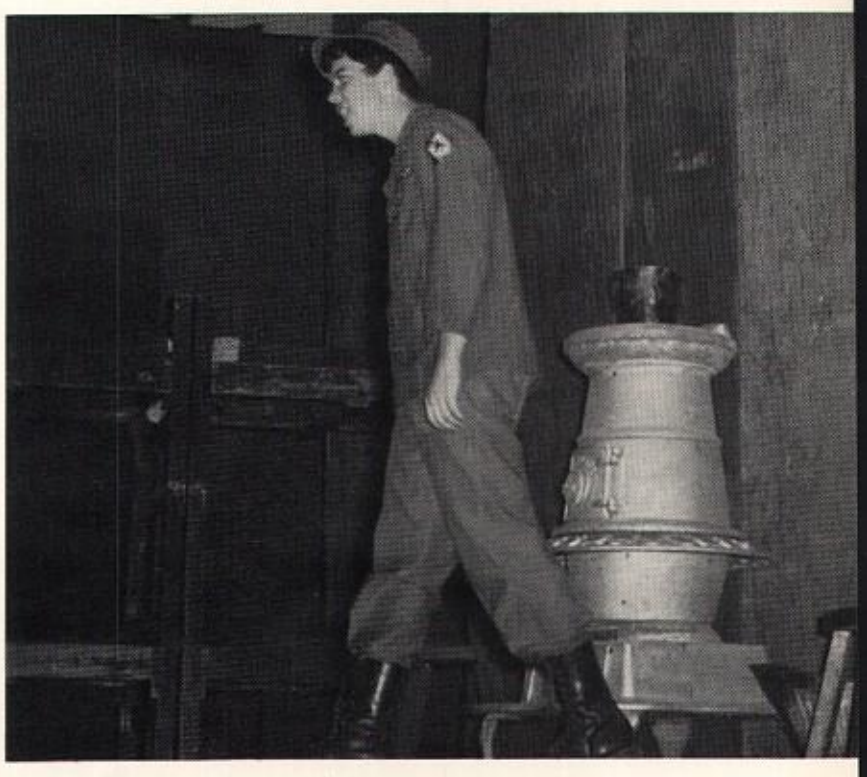
Herb: "After I heated the water and everything! What's the matter with you guys; you lost your mind or something!" (Bob Seward, Larry Misener, Bob Morton.)



Dunbar: "You tell me! You were around long enough to read about it." (Ronnie Lett, David Schmidt, Don Gambrel, Bob Woolard.)

The powerful conclusion of Act I is pictured below. Stosh and Harry drag Sefton from his bunk and beat him after deciding he is spying for the Germans. (Bob Seward, Bob Morton, Bob Woolard.)

Who says acting is hard work? The above scene actually photographed during an intermission on opening night depicts five of the tired "Stalag 17" cast members. (Jerry Robbins, Bob Woolard, Bob Morton, Chuck Heinsohn, and Don Munsell.)



"Look, I'm not crying. I know what the score is. I'm the criminal type. The fall guy... when something goes wrong... I'm the guy they look for." (Bob Woolard)

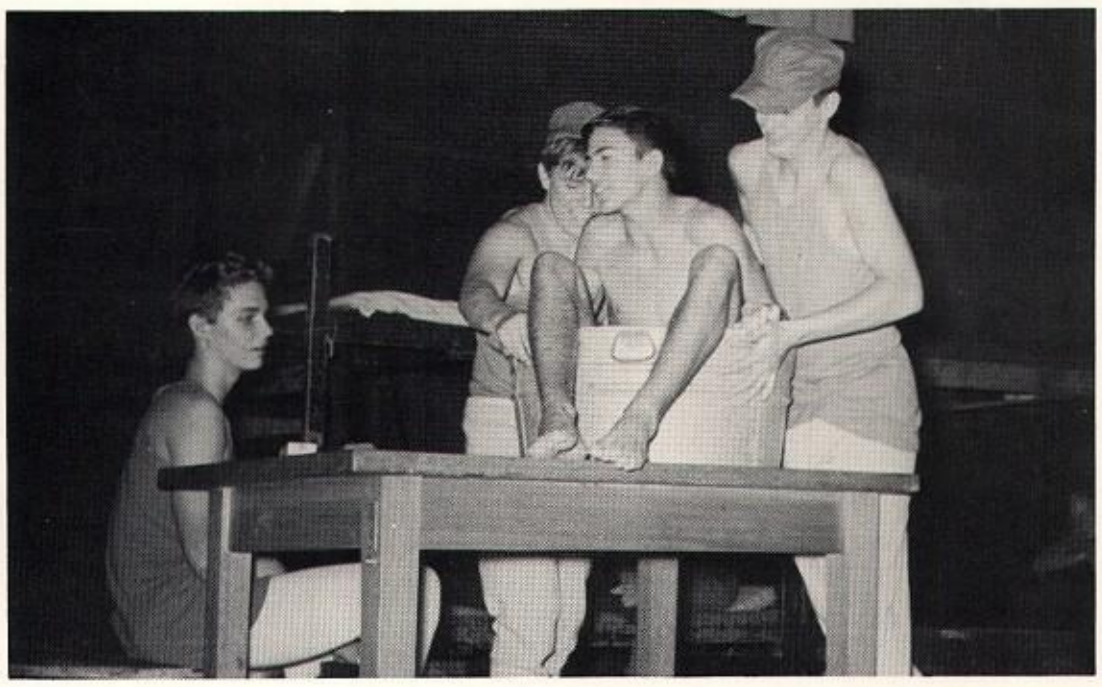
"I took this job of Security Man to counteract any German agent that might be planted here. I can't be of any use unless you guys check with me on everything." (David Schmidt, Don Gambrel, Dale Seward, Bob Woolard.)



Herb: "Come on... cut it out. I'll catch cold. How would you like it if I did it to you? You guys ruin everything..." (Chuck Heinshon, Bob Seward, Larry Misener, Bob Morton.)

Georgia Halpain vividly portrayed the young Helen Keller. In this scene she has just dropped a key into the well after locking Annie Sullivan in her room.

"Don't you know? Everything you forgot when you forgot my mother." - (Bob Woolard, Bob Velander, Janette Buchman.)

"It has a name, Helen; it has a name." - (Barby Burnett, Georgia Halpain, Cindy Bracken, Bob Velander, Janette Buchman.)

A record-setting number of people attended "The Miracle Worker," the second all-school play of the year. The three-act drama was seen by 833 people in its two night run, March 18 and 19.

The powerful and moving story of Annie Sullivan's efforts to teach language to the young Helen Keller won praise from members of the audience.

Sharing equally in the praise were the efforts of the actors, the stage hands, and the set construction crew.

"I'm afraid you're the difficulty, Miss Annie." - (Janette Buchman, Barby Burnett, Georgia Halpain, Bob Velander, Bob Woolard.)

The dramatic breakfast scene in which Barby Burnett, as Annie Sullivan, teaches Georgia Halpain, as Helen Keller, to eat with a spoon.

"Do you know how I look in them? Splendiloquent. Like a race horse!" (Bob Morton, Linda Pitman, Joann Ferguson, Barby Burnett, Cindy Burnett, Carol Markham, Mary Hunter, Marsha Dick.)

"Miss Sullivan follow instructions! I will not have you also tumbling out of our windows." (Bob Woolard, Barby Burnett, Bob Velander.)

"Finian's Rainbow" Tells Of Love, Laughs, And Leprechauns

Woody Mahoney (Bob Morton) and Sharon McLonergan (Janette Buchman) team up on a duet of "Old Devil Moon."

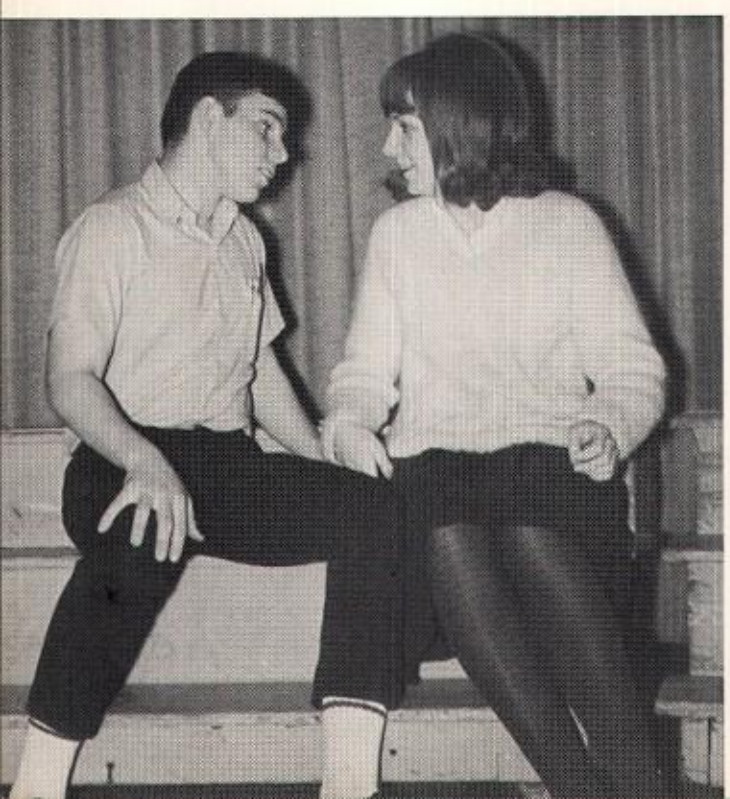
A cast of over forty Parsons High students, along with a twenty-member orchestra, presented "Finian's Rainbow" on Thursday and Friday, April 29 and 30.

The fantasy spin a story about Finian McLonergan, who steals a pot of gold and brings it and his pretty daughter, Sharon to America. A leprechaun, Og, follows him since the gold originally belonged to him. The ensuing complications--including young Woody Mahoney, who falls in love with Sharon--made for a delightful evening's entertainment.

Songs included in the production included: "How Are Things in Gloccamorra", "Old Devil Moon", "When I'm Not Near The Girl I Love, I Love the Girl I'm Near", "Necessity", "That Great Come-and-Get-It Day", "When the Idle Poor Become the Idle Rich", "If This Isn't Love", "Look to the Rainbow", and "Something Sort of Grandish."

The leprechaun (Bob Seward) works his magic on Senator Rawkins (Bob Velander).



Bob Seward, as Og, the leprechaun, professes his love to Susan, played by Jane Bair.

This is the motto of the 154 graduates of Parsons High School, 1965. As a senior gift the class gave American flags to be placed in each room and a large one for the auditorium. The class colors are gold and white; the class flower is the rose. In a year of firsts the senior class set a new tradition of honoring the nine top scholars. The honor students wore gold honor cords during the commencement ceremonies. The nine honor students are pictured below.

Mr. Beck gives Dr. Myers a welcome handshake.

Dr. Myers Speaks To Graduates

In the Commencement Address Dr. Myers delivered he noted that an intelligent interest in life is one aspect that determines whether a person is "growing up, or growing old." He also stated that "Individual responsibility is a part of the intelligent interest in life, not an interest in life."

In singling out education as a vital factor of living, Dr. Myers warned against the attitudes of "we don't know what we want, but we want it now." Being educated, he said, "means responding to an exposure of education, instead of being inoculated with it."

Dr. Myers went on to say, "There is no educated man. The so-called educated man is one who has not stopped in the endless pursuit of knowledge." Pointing to a need for a sense of sympathy and of a nearness of God, he said it is essential to make sympathy a motive. "It is not enough to give."

"There is no barrier in life that is strong enough to make a person say 'thus far and no further'."
